

RECAP OF Day 2

Is there such a thing as too much choice?

Which of the five education sessions did you attend yesterday morning? Regardless of your choice, you chose well! That's because each of them was highly informative and relevant to the work you do for the municipalities you serve.

The session about climate change was particularly timely, given the fact that the United Nations Climate Change Conference – COP 26 – ended just last week in Glasgow, Scotland. While climate change can seem like an insurmountable challenge, especially to municipalities in Alberta, we should not lose sight of the fact that small changes made over long periods of time really help. As those of you who attended this session can attest, every emission counts!

Those who attended the capital planning session discussed several scenarios they will likely face as they manage budgets impacted by reduced revenue, supply chain disruptions, shifting labour forces and rising costs of materials. Senior administrators from Medicine Hat, Jasper and Edmonton weighed in on how they would address these issues and the considerations that a town, a small city and a big city must consider when making tough budgeting decisions. The information was timely, relevant, and valuable for elected officials and administrators alike. ■

Government Day

Alberta Municipalities welcomes Premier Jason Kenney and many of his cabinet ministers to Day Three of the 2021 Convention.

This year, we will hold two one-hour Dialogue Sessions with Provincial Ministers.

During these sessions, the floor will be open for your questions. To keep us on track, you will have 45 seconds in which to ask your question. If time runs out, your microphone will be cut off. To keep you on track, we will have a countdown clock for you. ■
